Lab 10: Project Presentation

Lab Due Date: During your presentation time, email Bishop to schedule a time

Note: There is an alternative assignment to the presentation described below for those with special circumstances, but it's recommended that you present.

Presentation Guideline:

If you're presenting and not choosing the alternative lab described below, then essentially this presentation is meant to be a show and tell of your project. Run us through the functionality of your project and show any cool features that you've added. This isn't meant to be a strict presentation, it's meant to be more relaxed and shows us what pieces of the project that you enjoyed or that you're proud of. This presentation doesn't have a strict time that it should last, but it should be around 5 - 10 minutes.

Note: Make sure to schedule a time with Bishop by emailing him when you want to present. You must present sometime during Week 10, or during the scheduled final times.

Grade Rubric for presentation:

Presentation (If you schedule a time and present, this should be an easy lab)	600

Total   600 points

Alternative to Presentation:

If for some reason you're unable to present or are seeking an alternative to presenting, there's an alternative lab available. This alternative is creating a "User Guide" where you document how a user is expected to use your project. The rubric below shows the sections that would have to be included in your user guide. For more depth and detail on user guides, check out the following wiki page: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/User_guide

Grade Rubric for User Guide:

Cover page	75
Preface (description of project and how to navigate your User Guide)	75
Table of Contents	75
Guide on the main features of your project	75
Troubleshooting Section (possible errors or problems that may occur and how to resolve them).	75
FAQ (Frequently Asked Questions, or questions that you expect a user may have)	75
Further Help / Contact Details	75
Glossary of Terms (define any terminology specific to your project in this section)	75
